LATRAVIUS SMITH

LaTravius Smith is a native of Fort Gaines, Georgia but has called Macon, Georgia home since 1986. After graduating from Jones County High School in 1992, she began her military service obligation in the U.S. Army during the Gulf War and the Somali Civil War. She served the military for 8 years in Supply & Logistics Operations while assigned to Engineers, Military Intelligence, Air Defense Artillery, Technical Communication and Command Support units. During service she studied Logistics & Transportation and Public Speaking at Saint Leo University and Hawaii Pacific University. Following an honorable discharge from military service, LaTravius returned to Macon to settle and raise her family. She is a vested member in the Macon-Bibb community and has enjoyed a fascinating career in public service and rewarding experiences in community service. In 2018, LaTravius founded WordsSmith, LLC to pursue her passion for creative & grants writing. Currently, Ms. Smith is Chief of Operations and a founding member of The Urban CEO; a non-profit community development organization established in 2011. Ms. Smith is a member of Kingdom Life church where she serves as Minister of Community & Corporate Engagement. She accepted the call to ministry after Experiencing God through the affliction of cancer then walking in health by His divine power.

She comes to you by way of Christian experience and she shares a conversational testimony about the magnificence of God through the lens of one after His own heart and concern for the heart of his people.
